The 248th musical morning, under the management of Albert Morris Bagby, was held yesterday in the ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria. The artist were Enrico Caruso and Toscha Seidel, violinist. Richard Hageman and Salvatore Fucito were at the piane.

Mr. Caruso sang an aria from "L'Elisir d'Amore," and songs by Stradella and Adolphe Adam. Mr. Seidel played "Gipsy Airs," by Sarasate; "Chaconne," by Vatali, and other numbers by Brahms, Sinding and Kreisler.

Among those in the audience were Muratore to Quit U. S.

William J. Guard, general press representative for the Metropolitan Opera Company, yesterday denied the renort that Lucien Muratore, of the Chicago Opera Company, has been engaged by Manager Gatti-Casazza for the rest of the season. "There is nothing in it," said Mr. Guard.

M. Muratore and his wife, Lina Cavalieri, arrived at the Hotel Majestic yesterday morning. M. Muratore gave nervous prostration as the reason for his flight from Chicago in mid-season.

nervous prostration as the reason for his flight from Chicago in mid-season. The war has preyed heavily on his mind and he has just lost his father. As soon as comfortable accommodations can be obtained the tenor and his wife will go to France for a complete rest.

"Dear Brutus" Shows All the
Skill of Barrie in Best Moments

By Heywood Broun

We wish sometimes that Barrie would serve himself with at least a would serve himself with at least a would serve himself with at least a ceeds to break the iron of Mr. Shake-speare completely by showing that one character would have been quite different if he had had a second chance. Moreover, when he comes out of the wood he makes him different. This is not quite fair, even though it is explained that brave men can break the bonds of determinism.

But, though Barrie's philosophy is snotted, the story is told with excellent clarity. With the exception of a character called "Lob," the rather annoying Barrie consciousness of whimsicality is missing. We had hoped to write this review without mentioning either "charm" or "whimsicality," but it was not possible. \( \) William Gillette plays the man who
